INVESTMENT FRAUD – WAYS TO PROTECT YOURSELF

The Canadian Securities Administrators (CSA) is an organization of Canada's provincial and territorial securities regulators. Their purpose is to improve, coordinate and harmonize regulation of the Canadian capital markets. Below is an excerpt of an article on best ways to protect yourself from Investment Fraud.

There are some simple ways to do your research and protect yourself:

- The CSA National Registration Search (NRS) is an easy to use, free tool that you can use to check registration, categories of registration and any disciplinary information about registrants all in one place.
- Check available tools and resources that the CSA offers to assist the public in learning how to protect their investments. You can make informed decisions by learning how to identify the red flags of investment fraud and using important sources of information such as the CSA Disciplined List and Cease Trade Orders database.
- Check the news and search online to see if there are any news releases, investor alerts or other information about the company or person.
- Monitor for the red flags of fraud, which remain consistent regardless of the fraud or scam.
- Ask questions, get satisfactory answers and think critically before making financial or investment decisions.
- The CSA and its members regularly put out investor alerts informing the investing public of known scammers and fraudulent activities. Click here to sign up to receive emails when additions are made to the Investor Alert list.

Welcome TO THE TEAM!

Sadie McGriskin

Sadie moved to Kamsack with her parents and two brothers from Ontario in 2008. She currently lives south of Togo where she has been for the past two years, but is hoping to move closer to Churchbridge at some point in the future.

Sadie is looking forward to learning new skills and meeting new people as a casual Member Service Representative and seeing where this career path can take her. In her spare time, Sadie loves collecting vinyl records and being outside playing sports including snowboarding, kayaking, and golfing when the weather is nice.
